U.S. Book Official Charged by Soviet With Illegal Entry

MOSCOW, Sept. 11 (UPI)—
The Soviet Union today charged that Newcomb Mott of Sheffleld, Mass., now under Soviet detention, "illegally" crossed the Norwegian-Soviet border, the United States Embassy announced.

The embassy said Soviet authorities gave the first word here on the case of the publisher's representative following requests from United States offficials.

An American spokesman said that arrangements were being made for a consular official to see him "within a few days."

But the spokesman added, "that we are not acquainted with the facts and we want to talk to Mott."

Mr. Mott, a representative of the Van Nostrand Book Company of Princeton, N. J., arrived last week in Kirkenes, Norway, a town 10 miles from the Soviet border in the far north.

On Wednesday, Soviet officlals said he had been arrested for entering Soviet territory lilegally.

Release Requested

The Norwegian border police requested Mr. Mott's release Thursday, but said at the time it could be days before the Soviet border police reacted.
